Splunk Practitioners

Flourish in the Face of Uncertain Times

Splunk practitioners earn more and have greater job satisfaction

© 2020 by The Enterprise Strategy Group, Inc. All Rights Reserved.

ESG, in partnership with Splunk, conducted a research survey of 245 Splunk practitioners to explore the impact of specialized IT knowledge on career variables such as salary and job security. ESG’s research indicates that knowledge of and expertise with Splunk leads to increased compensation, more portable skills, and career advancement.

This is the second most frequently cited driver (behind work-life balance). In order to command a higher salary, employees must have in-demand skills—like Splunk expertise.

The most frequently cited benefit of learning Splunk is increased job security and portable skills.

MORE THAN 4 OUT OF 5 Splunk practitioners believe they are valued by their employer.

The most frequently cited reason for learning Splunk is increased job security and portable skills.

80% of respondents are confident in their ability to quickly find a new job with comparable pay and responsibilities, if needed.

82% of respondents believe it is important that any future/prospective employer also uses Splunk.

Splunk Practitioners Drive Their Own Career Transformation

With Splunk expertise, employees gain greater control over their careers.

63% of Splunk practitioners say learning Splunk has allowed them to focus on a more rewarding career.

60% say increased impact and influence on their company.

84% report increased respect and influence among colleagues.

Splunk Practitioners Transform Their Companies

In addition to benefiting practitioners, Splunk makes a difference for organizations.

53% IDENTIFIED A SECONDARY USE CASE WITHIN DAYS OF DEPLOYING SPLUNK FOR THEIR PRIMARY USE CASE.

86% OF RESPONDENTS SAY SPLUNK HELPS THEIR COMPANY COMPETE AND SUCCEED.